

FAREWELL PARTY FOR REV. KJOLHEDE

Rev. Peter Kjolhede, who has been the pastor of the local Danish Lutheran church continuously for the past 23 years is leaving Grayling, having preached his farewell sermon last Sunday to a large and appreciative congregation.

Rev. Kjolhede is 87 years old, and was ordained into the ministry 54 years ago. His pastorate previous to coming to Grayling was at Grant, Michigan, where he is returning to make his home. Rev. and Mrs. Kjolhede are leaving today and will locate on a small farm adjoining that of their son at that place. The Rev. is retiring from the ministry, however he says he will gladly give his services whenever called upon and for any occasion. He together with his estimable wife have labored to keep the local church in good standing and their efforts have not been in vain, as it boasts of a large, fine congregation, and many of the members have worshipped there for many years and during the entire time of Rev. Kjolhede's pastorate. Besides the church duties both during their earlier years conducted a school in Grayling in which the young people were taught the Danish language and had an opportunity to learn the (the points of their religion. Also Rev. Kjolhede has conducted a weekly afternoon reading club since coming here. Many of the ladies of the congregation were members and the meeting was held on Thursday afternoon of each week. Talks were given at each meeting by Rev. and Mrs. Kjolhede, and Danish songs and readings by the members who looked forward to these pleasant gatherings for years.

The weekly reading circle was held this week on Tuesday and at the home of Mrs. T. Nelson. Following lunch, the group was photographed.

To bid Rev. and Mrs. Kjolhede farewell, the members of the congregation gathered at Danebod hall, last evening and enjoyed a pot luck dinner together in their honor. There was a large crowd in attendance at the affair.

Rev. Kjolhede in his 87th milestone is remarkable. He drives his own car and has made many long drives during his years. He is always in attendance at any district, state or national convention of his church and is an active part in the programs. Before the ordaining minister for the United States he has been called to places far and wide to ordain young men into the ministry and it is only a year or so ago that he made such a trip out west.

The entire congregation of the Danish Lutheran church and many other friends outside of the church regret the departure of Rev. and Mrs. Kjolhede from Grayling. They have been fine citizens and in leaving carry with them the well wishes of hosts of friends.

Axel and Marjorie Kjolhede of Grant arrived Wednesday to accompany their parents to their new home.

Succeeding Rev. Kjolhede is Rev. Hans Juhl, who comes from Canada, and we welcome that reverend gentleman into our midst. He will fill the pulpit next Sunday.

GOLFERS GO TO WEST BRANCH SUNDAY

A return visit will be paid by the Grayling golfers next Sunday, October 4th. The contest is scheduled to begin at 1:00 p. m.

All Grayling players are requested to be there to enjoy the event and to try to uphold the honors for the local club. Grayling had a decisive victory over West Branch upon their visit here September 20th. Can we do it again? No doubt our hosts will be cooked and primed for the event, as everyone is there to do his best to win.

GUARD YOUR TABLE READ THE LABEL

Housewives will find new words printed in bold-face type, upon the labels of some canned peaches, pears, tomatoes, cherries, and apricots packed this season and going on the market now. These words are, "Below U. S. Standard; Low Quality But Not Illegal."

What do the words mean, and what should the housewife do when she finds them on a particular can?

The words mean that the national pure food law has been amended to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to prescribe and formulate quality standards for all canned foods save meat and meat products, and canned milk. The Secretary has already announced official standards for peaches, pears, tomatoes, cherries, and apricots, and these standards are now in effect. The amendment, popularly known as the "canner's bill," further authorizes the Secretary to prescribe a designation to be printed upon the labels of canned foods that fall below the standards.

The canners' bill also gives the Secretary authority to define a standard fill for canned foods. Canned foods shall be considered as of standard fill if the entire contents occupy 90 per cent or more of the volume of the closed container. If a buyer finds the words "Slack filled," on a can, she will know that the food in that container does not occupy 90 per cent of the volume.

"A housewife with a limited amount of money to spend will be greatly aided in making her purchases of canned foods within the coming months if she will carefully read the labels on the containers," says Dr. P. B. Dunbar. "Nor need she fear that if she buys a can of food labeled with the substandard designation that she is getting an unwholesome product."

"If the food actually were unwholesome, it would of course be illegal under the food and drug act and subject to action under that measure. She need not hesitate to purchase a food branded, 'Below U. S. standard; low quality but not illegal,' because that food will carry the nutritive, if not the esthetic, value of standard canned goods."

The housewife need not look for the wording indicating a substandard product on any canned goods, save the six mentioned, for some time to come. The standards for canned peaches, pears, apricots, cherries, and tomatoes are all that have been formulated and officially announced to date. The Food and Drug Administration will work out standards for other canned foods as rapidly as possible, however.

APPOINTED MEMBER STATE MED. BOARD

DISTINCTIVE HONOR PAID TO DR. C. R. KEYPORT

Governor Wilbur M. Brucker has appointed Dr. C. R. Keyport as a member of the Michigan State Board of Registration in Medicine to succeed Dr. William Marshall of Flint who recently resigned.

This high honor comes to Dr. Keyport in recognition of the wonderful service he has rendered to humanity. Grayling can well afford to be proud to have one of its highly esteemed citizens represented on the above honorable board. Dr. Keyport graduated from the Detroit Medical College in 1909 and served an internship at Harper Hospital and then came to Grayling as an associate of Dr. S. N. Inaley.

For three years he was vice-president of Michigan State Medical society and also chairman of the District Health Board. He has acted as surgeon for the New York Central lines and a senior member of the staff at Grayling Mercy Hospital for the past twenty years, and has enjoyed a far reaching acquaintance in the entire northern part of Michigan.

Considering how critical the average woman is of her husband's friends, the husband is apt to wonder how he ever got by himself.

SINK HOLE SOUTH OF GRAYLING MAY CAUSE LOTS OF TROUBLE FOR DEPT.

The sink hole, four miles south of Grayling, may still cause the state highway department a lot of trouble, even though everything possible was done to keep it from sinking last spring, by using tons of dynamite in an effort to blow the muck from under the road bed and the thousands of yards of gravel filled in.

About three weeks ago a crack appeared down the middle of the asphalt, caused by the road sinking on the sides. Since then there has been quite a noticeable sinking of the pavement in a number of places by the crack.

It is impossible to know how long this piece of road will continue to sink, or what will have to be done to stop it.—Grayling Herald Times.

ROAD COMMISSIONERS SUMMONED TO TRAVERSE CITY

Members of the Crawford county road commission have been summoned to a meeting of road officials of 27 Northern Michigan counties at the Park Place hotel at Traverse City Friday, called by Governor Brucker's unemployment relief commission. The meeting will begin at 10:00 (e.s.t.) and continue through the afternoon, addressed by William "Good Roads" Connolly of Grand Haven, J. W. Hansen of Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Good Roads association, and officials of the highway department. Attendance of all road officials in the Northern Michigan counties is considered imperative in the cause of unemployment relief this winter.

LAND OFFERED FOR OIL DEVELOPMENT

State owned land in Ogemaw, Arenac, and Midland counties will be offered for lease for oil development purposes at a sale to be held in the Department of Conservation offices at Lansing, October 2 at 2 p. m.

Some of the territory to be offered for lease is proven oil territory within from one half to 12 miles of the Mount Pleasant oil field, and the leases to be granted will be on the basis of a sliding scale royalty. The rest of the land is "wild cat" territory.

The sale of leases is the first to be held by the Lands Division of the Department of Conservation in a year, and follows applications for leasing of the lands and results from the recent increase in the price of oil.

POTATO AND APPLE SHOW

CHOIR SINGING CONTEST

The Top O' Michigan Town and Country Choir and Chorus Singing contest held in connection with the Ninth Annual Potato and Apple Show at Gaylord, will be given more consideration than usual this year, due to the increasing number of entries each year.

The total premiums offered this year have been increased, from $150 to $205, and the number of prizes from five to eight. This will allow more choirs to share in the prizes and help defray expenses of coming to Gaylord, according to B. C. Mellenkamp, secretary of the show.

This contest is conducted under the auspices of the R. E. Olds Community Music Fund and the Michigan State College. The two hundred and five dollars in prizes will be awarded as follows: First—$60.00; second—$40.00; third—$30.00; fourth—$25.00; fifth—$20.00, and the next three—$10.00 each.

The contest will take place at the Gaylord Auditorium on Friday morning, October 30th, promptly at ten o'clock, Eastern Standard Time. This is the last day of the show.

DEPT. OF STATE STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Despite economic conditions of the past year, assets of building and loan associations in Michigan have shown a substantial gain. Department of State records show. At the present time, associations in the state, have total assets in excess of $107,000.

A survey of the industry by the building and loan division of the department, shows that the associations in the state are in a "good" financial position, according to Coleman C. Vaughan, division chief. In several localities, associations have required members to give 30 days notice according to law before withdrawing funds, but investigation by the department shows that this step, in every instance, has been taken as an added protection to members.

Gasoline tax receipts for the months of August and September, will exceed those for the corresponding months of 1930, Department of State records indicate. Complete figures for August will not be available but it is certain that the 1930 revenue of $2,171,054 will be exceeded.

Unusually large attendance at the Michigan State Fair as well as at various county fairs and huge influx of visitors to the American Legion convention will bring the September figure of tax revenue above the Sept. 1930 figure of $2,009,578.

The Public Acts of 1931 as passed by the legislature and approved by the governor, have been indexed and printed and are ready for distribution by the Department of State. The price is $1.50 for the volume.

ODDFELLOWS SOFT BALL CHAMPS

The Oddfellow Soft ball team defeated Vanderbilt Sunday afternoon, this bringing their 7th victory for the season. Out of 11 games they won seven.

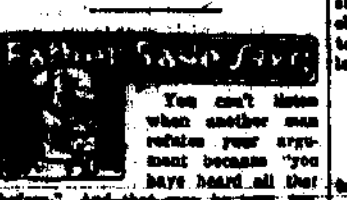

Last Sunday the home team played Vanderbilt at Vanderbilt, the former winning with a score of 6 to 3. The Sunday previous the locals defeated Vanderbilt at the latter town 18 to 12. These, it is claimed, are the only games Vanderbilt has lost during the season.

The local team has been playing under the management of D. D. G. P. Chris King, local manager, and the home games have been played on the Chris King lots on the South Side.

AUTOS KILL WILD LIFE

With paved roads and fast automobiles on the increase, the number of birds and animals killed on highways mounts steadily every year, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Very few small birds can fly faster than 25 miles an hour, and small land animals move much more slowly, specialists of the Biological Survey point out, so they have no chance whatever with a fast motor car. In the prairie regions of the country ground squirrels and jack rabbits suffer most, while in the autumn in the Eastern States the box turtle is perhaps the chief victim.

About the only subject on which there seems to be no difference of opinion is that an automobile is a necessity.

You can't know when another man refutes your argument because "you have heard all the things" and that may be true, too.

SCHOOL NOTES

To Have Monthly Class Meetings

The setting aside of special hours on special days of the month for class meetings and the difficulty in obtaining permits seems to us to be fair. In other years there has been no real system concerning the class meetings. Now a day and hour is set aside every month for this purpose. If a special meeting is necessary it should be arranged to be held out side of school hours. In this way more time that should be spent in studying is saved.

The difficulty in obtaining permits this year leaves no chance for any student to receive one unless a good excuse is given. If an unexcused slip is given 10% is taken from the student's marks and if an unexcused tardy slip is received 3% is taken. This seems fair enough providing the unexcused slip is deserved.

We are looking forward to a bigger and better school year.

B. Schaible and E. Kraus.

Annual Class Day.

The day isn't far off now until we will have our annual class day program. I think that I will be safe in saying that 99% of the student body are in favor of having it. This year there will be more activities than there has been the years before. The reason for this is, that just about all the girls in high school put up a kick about them not being able to take part in it.

I think class day is a very good thing in a school. Because it teaches us to be more friendly with our classmates.

We hope that we will have a bigger turnout this year than we did last as it looks to me now as though its going to be a very exciting event.

D. Gottho.

The New Hour System.

Several of the best reputed high schools have adopted this plan. Among them are Menominee, Saginaw, Highland Park and Alma high schools. The plan is recommended by the Department of Inspection of the University of Michigan.

During the class hour, at least half of the period is used for recitation and the rest for study purposes in which the teacher is at liberty to improve the preparation of the next day's work.

We believe that in having extra time to study during class hour under the direct supervision of the subject teachers will prove helpful to the students.

Teachers find that the study hall is easier to handle because much of the studying is done in the classroom saving fewer students in the session room.

In totaling up the amount of time to study we find that as a total the hour plan gives at least a quarter of an hour more for useful purposes than the 45 minute plan.

The New Hour System.

The new hour system is working fine. The students find they are doing better work as it is much easier to study under close supervision in the class room than in the session hall. With only six hours of work during the school day instead of the eight that we had last year a student carrying the required four subjects finds himself with only two hours to study. This makes it necessary for him to apply himself strictly to the preparation of his lesson. The result is that the teacher in charge finds the session quieter. The short study period allowed in the classroom gives the student a chance to ask questions concerning the lesson for the following day.

other half spent in supervised study. So far the plan seems to have worked out well, supervised study like supervised play is better for the individual. The students do more work in session and do not have time to waste looking around the room. During the study time in classes, the teachers are there to answer all question therefore time is not wasted in getting a permit to see a teacher about the next day's work.

Some class discussions need more time than others and more knowledge is gathered from them when they are completed than when they are continued until the next day.

WHAT'S THE MATTER, POP?

We hear a lot of it hard times and periodical depressions, but we hear too little about the cure for same.

"They come every 10 years," says the statistician as solemnly as the owl hoots his nocturnal note.

Why they come, or whence they come, or are they inevitable, are seemingly unanswered, if not unanswerable, interrogatories.

If panic were plague, and it is even worse, expert hygienists by the score would bore to the very cause of causes, and be ready to avert its recurrence.

We wonder if folk ever stop to think that possibly they themselves may be the cause of cataclysms like the present, and those of the past?

We say: "In peace prepare for war."

Should we not also say: "In prosperity prepare for panic?"

Why not?

Instead of that we ride the prosperity steed at breakneck pace until he becomes windbroken and spavined, and breaks down under us, and then we wonder and wail, wail and wonder, why it has to be.

Practically everybody in America, in periods of prosperity, certainly a large majority of the people, lap up the juice of the prolific vine, and when the vine has an off year the people become very dry—distressingly so—and wonder why.

We take no thought of tomorrow, while draining the cup of luxury today.

We spend money "like drunken sailors" and expect money to rain down from the skies.

We not only spend all we have, but we mortgage the future and this so deeply that if the tide turns we are drowned in its reflux flood.

We decline to learn from experience.

We are affronted if anybody suggests that we lack the perspective, if not the perspicuity of chipmunks, who invariably lay up something for the rainy—or snowy—day.

Are we incapable of making brain cells?

Are we indeed reasoning, sentient, mortals?

Let's take an early autumn stroll around ourselves and ascertain what we look like anyway.

Bewailing conditions for which we ourselves are largely responsible will never ameliorate or change them. —Selah.—San Marino Tribune.

FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY LAW POPULAR

North Carolina, following the lead of California and other states, has adopted a Financial Responsibility Law for motorists.

The law, of the familiar pattern, provides that a person failing to satisfy a judgment shall have his license suspended until he gives proof of financial responsibility, either through an insurance policy or a personal corporate surety bond.

This type of law is finding increasing support throughout the nation, and it is noteworthy that demand for unconditional compulsory automobile liability insurance, of the Massachusetts kind, is seldom heard.

The experience of the Bay State, with its congested courts, rising accident record, faked claims and increased insurance rates has acted as a warning to other commonwealths.

One can find little fault with the Financial Responsibility Law. Its principal virtue is that it puts the responsibility and cost where it belongs—on those who cause accidents—and does not penalize the careful, responsible driver. The negligent motorist holds the financial sack, as he should.

In all probability it will not be long before an appreciable number of states have similar laws to the benefit of the public at large.

LEGIONAIRES HOME FROM CONVENTION

The local Legionaires have returned home from the big national American Legion convention held in Detroit, and report one grand and glorious time. Home folks no doubt after reading the various newspaper reports expected this, however to be one of the vast crowd is almost beyond one's imagination. Too, to have been one of the marchers in the great parade was a wonderful thing and will no doubt live in the memory of those who took part.

Driving into Detroit Sunday and trying to get to Woodward avenue and the downtown district was impossible. One had to park his car several blocks away and walk to hotels or places at which they had planned to make their headquarters. Legionaires were arriving for the big convention; the streets were thronged with people and the music from various drum and bugle corps, belonging to organizations, announcing their arrival constantly rang in your ears. This, it is said, lasted all night long and the downtown was alive with people. After registering at any one of numerous places, one was ready for the convention. Stream of people poured into the city and by Monday night Detroit's population was swelled many thousands.

Monday morning the big event of the day was the short visit of President Hoover, whom we saw while he was being escorted to the Olympia, where crowds of people had been waiting from early morning. But it wasn't necessary to go to the Olympia for his voice resounded in the downtown district, by means of several amplifiers, and what he had to say was readily heard.

Tuesday morning long before the scheduled hour for the big parade, crowds began to assemble and when eleven o'clock came and the hour of the parade, the streets all along the line of march were a mass of people, packed from the curb to the buildings, and merchants found it necessary to reinforce their windows to keep them from being crashed in. Nine hours is a long time to stay in one place to watch a parade, but it all was so entrancing that, one was loathe to leave for fear of missing something. State after state passed in review and each outfit seemed grander than its predecessor. It would be hard to find words to describe the beauty of the uniformed bands and bugle corps; the music was superb, consisting mostly of the wartime airs, such as "Over There," etc. They in turn were cheered loud and long by the immense crowd. As Michigan was the last to pass in review, it was hard to distinguish the names on the banners, however Grayling was the only northern town in the state represented in the parade by a float. The effect of the float was a flood of the darkness, however there were a lot of curious people inquiring as to what the big wheels represented and their use. A Detroit News photographer took a picture of the float and much information concerning it, so no doubt it will in due time already appeared it will in due time.

Thursday saw the Legionaires gradually leaving Detroit and returning to their homes with memories fresh in their minds of the wonderful event. There were cut-ups on every corner during the day, keeping people in the downtown district in an up-rear all the time.

There wasn't a dull moment during the entire American Legion convention.

Shidehara

JAPAN'S action in seizing Mukden and other South Manchurian cities was causing a lot of trouble not only for China, but also for the Japanese government.

The aggressive course, it appears, was taken by the war office without awaiting the approval of the government at Tokyo, and the cabinet was badly split. War Minister Minami aggravated this rupture by sending reinforcements to Manchuria from the Korean garrisons on his own initiative.

Foreign Minister Kijuro Shidehara was especially rolled, for he hoped to settle the quarrel with China by peaceful negotiations, and apparently Premier Wakatsuki was of the same mind.

On demand of Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations, a special meeting of the league council was called to hear Nanking's protest against the action of Japan, and a mild resolution was adopted. Mr. Sze charged that Japanese troops, without provocation, opened fire and shelled the Chinese soldiers at Mukden, bombarded the arsenal and barracks, set fire to the ammunition depot and disarmed Chinese troops in other cities. He asked that the league act to prevent further development of the situation and determine the amounts and character of reparations due China.

Konichi Yoshizawa, Japanese spokesman, announced to the council that Japan would respect in every way the stipulations of the league covenant and of the Kellogg pact to her policy toward Manchuria.

T. V. Soong, Chinese minister of finance, proposed a Sino-Japanese commission to try to solve the Manchuria problem and this suited Tokyo, but it was rejected flatly by Nanking.

President Chiang Kai-shek in a message to the Chinese people, declared that "if the League of Nations and the Kellogg pact signatories fail to uphold justice between China and Japan, the national government is prepared for a final and supreme struggle. I shall lead the army and the entire nation in the fight for the preservation of our race. I shall go to the front and, if necessary, fall with other patriots."

The Canton rebel government ceased its hostile campaign against the Nationalist regime in order that all China might unite to combat Japan.

Soviet Russia took a hand in the matter, making formal protest to Japan against the latter's course in taking steps in Manchuria without first notifying Moscow. Russia says her interests in Manchuria are as large as those of Japan. The tone of the Moscow press was warlike.

On Wednesday morning of State

to be done. In the words of the official announcement, "This decision will, of course, not affect obligations of his majesty's government or of the Bank of England which are payable in foreign currencies."

On Monday the government's bill was rushed through both houses of parliament and approved by the king, and the gold standard act was thus suspended for six months. Whether the nation will go back to that standard depends on the course of events.

Though the government's decision was not announced until Sunday night, it was reached several days earlier and the rulers of America and France were warned. In the stock exchanges of both countries a check was put on short selling, so the evil effects were minimized and the bears held under curb.

Of course, the pound sterling dropped to low figures, but there was a decided recovery within a few hours. The London stock exchange and some continental houses were closed temporarily.

Chancellor Snowden, always courageous in difficulties, presented the case to the house of commons when the bill was up for passage and to the crowded benches and galleries he had no apologies to make. He cited the chief reasons for the action as follows:

The tying up of British funds in Germany, with its immediate effect on the London market.

Criticism abroad concerning the British government's expenditure in keeping the unemployed on the dole.

The adverse balance of trade, which he said, "has been seized upon and exaggerated."

The new government's liability to command a united front in the house of commons.

The rival unrest "exploited in foreign newspapers, causing general nervousness abroad."

Mr. Snowden explained that as a result of all this people began to take their possessions away from England, but added that the actual crisis started last May with the collapse of the chief banks in Australia.

J. P. Morgan, who was in London, gave one of his exceedingly rare interviews to the press.

"This step seems to me," he said, "to be the second necessary stage in the work of the national government, the first being the balancing of the budget. The completion of the government's work will be the restoration of trade in this country. This being the case, it seems to me to be a hopeful and not a discouraging event, and one which brings the great work of the government much nearer to accomplishment."

GREAT BRITAIN started off the week with a bang that could be heard around the world. The national government, facing the gold reserves of the Bank of England were reduced to the danger point, the money borrowed from America and France exhausted, and the withdrawal of foreign balances from the country continuing, adopted the evidently wise course of abandoning the gold standard at least temporarily. The situation had become so critical that this had to be done. In the words of the official announcement, "This decision will, of course, not affect obligations of his majesty's government or of the Bank of England which are payable in foreign currencies."

The Big Parade Review.

Detroit and Michigan entertained the American Legion and their Women's Auxiliary the past week. This was the 18th time these World War veterans gathered for their annual reunion. In order, they have met in Minneapolis; Cleveland; Kansas City; New Orleans; San Francisco; St. Paul; Omaha; Philadelphia; Paris, France; San Antonio; Louisville and Boston. Geographically speaking, they have been all over the country. And the Detroit reunion proved to be the largest and best of them all. Over 100,000 visitors registered in Detroit during the convention week. They came from every state and from abroad. And over a million people spent Tuesday on the sidelines, while for nine long hours, 92,000 war veterans passed in review. There surely is some significance in these "tremendous" figures, officially registered. With all the talk about hard times and business depression, Detroit hardly expected to equal the 1920 gathering at Boston, when 76,000 registered. Close by were the great metropolitan areas of New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. Close by, when reckoned by the motor car speed reliability. Yet after a whole year of gloom by pessimists, over 100,000 visitors found time and money to visit Detroit. They came in palatial Pullman trains; in chartered palace steamers; in speedy airplanes, and in tens of thousands of motor cars. They came well dressed, prepared to have a good time, and willing and able to pay for it. According to the board of commerce estimates in Detroit, they spent several million dollars in their brief but hectic exploration of Detroit's business and convention opportunities. Many motor car sales were arranged, despite the rush of convention diversions. Down town stores prospered.

Index to American Prosperity.

Seeing, is believing. America put out five million men and women into the World War. By the draft system they were an exact cross section of all America, in 1917 and 1918. Between the ages of 21 and 30. So the more than 100,000 Legionaires and Auxiliary in Detroit the past week, are a representative cross section of all America today. In that perspective, American business may well take heart. New York, Massachusetts and New England states, which are reported to have suffered relatively most in the stock market tumble of last year, were in Detroit with the largest numbers, relatively, and the most expensive travelling and resorting equipment. Portland, Oregon, won the 1932 Legion convention. Conservative Legion leaders wondered if a more centrally located city would not be more desirable, in view of some pessimistic estimates of world business conditions. California and all the states west of the Rocky Mountains, were sure that business would improve steadily the coming year. They cheerfully guaranteed $100,000 for entertaining the Legionaires in 1932, as proof of their confidence in American business stability. And the Legion delegations from Maine to Florida, who would have farthest to travel in 1932 to reach Portland, Oregon, were as confident that they would be there. So other cities withdrew, and Portland, Oregon, won the 1932 celebration. And Windsor, Canada, will today tell the world that an American World War veterans reunion is a real celebration. Over 20,000 Legionaires are reported to have lived in the Canadian border cities during the "big parade" in Detroit. Thus adding appreciably to the Legion attendance records. And on both sides of the Detroit river, every theater and amusement place was crowded from early morning to midnight shows. Telegrams and letters came from hundreds of leading Legionaires to Detroit headquarters, expressing regret that business improvement in their respective localities, prevented their being present.

America Leads The World.

All of which ought to be good news to American business in this hour. Government representatives from England; France; Italy; Poland; and the Slavic countries, all brought helpful greetings and information to the council board of the Legion. Behind closed doors and before several Legion convention committees, they expressed themselves much more freely than in their formal talks before the convention and its series of banquets and feasts. They all looked to America to lead the way to business stability, just as these allies looked to American help in the war, just fifteen years ago. They brought a mass of figures bearing on the national debts; their business data before the World War, and since; their debt systems, and their estimates of actual unemployment. They all knew that America today has half the gold supply of the whole world. They seemed to know better than our own business men, serving on Legion legislative committees, that they are far less fortunately situated than America. None of them are self contained and self sustaining, as is America. At home they are hedged about by tariff barriers and trade restrictions, unknown in America. Their standard of living for the mass of their people, is far below that here. And they believed Germany even worse off, economically, as a result of the World War. These foreign guests knew all about the American surplus in wheat; meat; corn; cotton; sugar, and the like. Their people would gladly have more of all these life necessities. On that they agreed. But when asked for suggestions to that good end, they thought it was a problem that only America could solve in this hour. At least, this rich and favored country can and must take the lead. So this 1931 Legion convention in Detroit gave us an intimate glimpse into the present business and economic conditions in Europe, and a chance "to see ourselves as others see us." Then the Legion went on record for world peace and speedy disarmament by war mad Europe, as one sure road to better economic and social conditions, world wide.

STIMMANS sent notes to both Japan and China urging them to cease hostilities, and the League of Nations council cabled to Tokyo asking Japan to permit a neutral commission to investigate the situation.

"WHO'S WHO" IN NORTHERN MICHIGAN

By EDWARD SCHERMER
and WESLEY WAGNER

REPAIRS AND SERVICE STATION
The firm of L. E. Schram located at Grayling is regarded as one of the best garages and service stations in this section. Since its inception about a year ago Mr. Schram has enjoyed a steady growth in the volume of business. The equipment is up to date and modern and the work is guaranteed. A full line of parts and accessories can be had here and Teyco Products are handled exclusively. A good business in a good town.

J. F. SMITH—GRAYLING

STANDARD SERVICE STATION
The J. F. Smith Standard Service Station of Grayling was established in 1924 and is considered as one of the best businesses of its kind in this section with 18 hours service and a full line of Standard Products in addition to Atlas and Dunlop Tires and Tubes and an up to date Battery Service.

Mr. J. F. Smith who has been a life-long resident of Crawford County gives his own personal attention to the business which is one good reason for its success.

CASH & CARRY STORE—GRAYLING

M. HARTLEY
Although this thriving establishment is but a comparative newcomer in the business ranks of this section, a large and flourishing business is carried on. The stock is large and well-selected and the service is prompt and courteous.

A full line of poultry and dairy feeds are also kept on hand and sold at consistent prices.

Mr. Hartley who gives his own personal attention to the business is a native born resident of Crawford County and deserves the support of all Crawford Countians.

BOB'S PLACE—GRAYLING

J. E. BUGBY
Since its inception in 1929 Bob's Place in Grayling on Highway US-27 operated by Mr. J. E. Bugby, has enjoyed a steady, consistent growth, catering to a large and increasing patronage and offering a service second to none in this entire section. About 30 people can be accommodated and regular meals as well as short orders are served.

Mr. Bugby has lived in Crawford County for the past 16 years and is counted as one of our most esteemed business men.

D. E. WINER—VANDERBILT

DRUGGIST
The evolution of the drug store affords matter for an interesting study. Years ago, and not so many years ago at that, the drug store was just what the name implied: exactly that and nothing more. It sold drugs and made medicines and nothing else. Laxative regulation of the business was also very lax. Today it is necessary to be a licensed pharmacist in order to compound a prescription and mostly all druggists, as is Dr. D. E. Winer of Vanderbilt, are graduates of colleges of pharmacy having devoted years of study to the profession in order to better serve you. No more haphazard methods in drug stores like this. Everything is done with definite certainty.

Today the modern drug store like Winer's carries a very diversified line of merchandise. Drugs, toilet articles, stationery, soda fountain, etc. comprise the contents of the store, all tastefully arrayed and well displayed to make your shopping easier and more pleasant.

THE COMMUNITY STORE—JOHANNESBURG

ALFRED LARSEN
Next to knowing when to seize an opportunity, the most important thing in life is to know when to forego an advantage. Discreet said that and he knew whereof he spoke. Two years ago Mr. Larsen saw the opportunity of buying this store here and seized that opportunity. But Mr. Larsen always knew when to forego an advantage. Small advantages or large ones at the expense of the customer have never been permitted here. Opportunities to take such advantages arise in the management of any business and frequently the customer may never know. But real success was never built on such tactics. Sky-scrapers are not built on shifting sands.

When goods are marked silk in The Community Store they are silk. If they're marked wool they are wool and if they're cotton, you're told so. A pound means sixteen ounces and fresh means fresh. A yard is a yard and a half is a half and they know the meaning of the word courtesy.

HOPE'S GARAGE—BELL LAIRE

THOMAS LEE HOPE
It is no exaggeration to say that in the past years that automobile industry has witnessed and undergone changes of a revolutionary nature. Improvements and refinements of various kinds have made the automobile almost a perfect means of transportation.

Notice the qualification, almost. The best automobile built requires handling and always will be only as good as the human beings who are responsible to certain weaknesses that cannot be helped.

Now the automobile has advanced, but who fixes them when they break? Has the advanced too? Has he kept up with the machine he works on? Is he qualified to fix these new machines that are cropping up every

NOA BROTHERS—GAYLORD

FINE MEATS AND GROCERIES
A. F. AND FRANK NOA
Another independent merchant. Another Otsego County Booster. Another fine general store that is a creditable asset to the County. That is quite descriptive of Noa Bros. store at Gaylord, a store that was opened in 1904, 26 years ago. It is not because of selfish reasons that this store advocates the reign of the independent merchant. There is always room for good clean competition. But competition that does not start from the same level and on the same terms as its competitor is evidently unfair. Surely you agree with that as being sound logic.

Local business interests have an obligation to you, and their community. This should of course discharge these obligations with the utmost fairness. Their obligation to you is to sell you merchandise of quality at prices consistent with that quality; to give you in addition an efficient and courteous service and consideration. You are entitled to that and you get it here.

The merchant's obligation to his community is to equalize prices. He should support that community in all its worthwhile activities, should aid in all its ambitions, and help in all its troubles.

This firm has never shirked these responsibilities. Because it is a part and parcel of the community it has always gladly assumed them. Is it not in turn then entitled to a like consideration from you? Are not some like this the ones you should patronize? This is your home. Is it not then to your interests to support home stores that aid in the advancement of this, your home town?

INDIAN TRAIL SERVICE STATION—GAYLORD

FRANK M. WRIGHT
Motorists are rapidly becoming skeptics—or perhaps there is a better word or phrase than that to use. That is not quite what I meant to say. Rather, might I say, motorists are from Missouri—show them. That's better. When a motorist sees something with his eyes he does not always believe it, but he's a pretty straight bird, is that motorist.

For instance, he sees many signs that read Service Station but he does not believe them all, for he's a materialist too, is that motorist. When he sees a sign that reads Service Station, that's what he expects it to be—a Service Station, where you get service. Note the capital S. You might fool him in once but you won't get him back in a second, for he's a sensitive bird too, is that motorist and he doesn't like a lie. Of course he knows that all Service Stations sell gas and oil and accessories, but he knows also that all Service Stations don't give service, for he's a knowing one too, is that motorist.

He likes little things done for him, like filling the radiator and putting air in his tires or water in his battery. He calls these little favors Service and he likes them.

Now then, The Indian Trail Service Station at Gaylord is run by a pretty keen fellow too. He knows that the motorist likes these little attentions and he sees that they get them. The Indian Trail Service Station sells Gas and Oil and Accessories, but they give SERVICE.

CENTRAL LAKE EXCHANGE

STEVENS & STEVENS, EST. 1894
There are probably few, if any, industries or business houses that are of more economic importance to the civic and industrial welfare of this community than the Central Lake Exchange of Central Lake.

In ways too numerous to mention and frequently in ways unknown to the general public, does this bank ply its efforts to make this a bigger and better town. You see to-day a bank is no longer just a clearing house for funds. Rather, it is a clearing house for everything that will create general welfare.

It disseminates information, gives advice, helps, advises and lends assistance to various industries that may seek to locate here and to others already located here. On good security, it lends money for many purposes that materially aid in this town's progress. In fact it always prefers to lend money to local interests that will leave their money here.

The Central Lake Exchange is also a depository for much of the wealth of this section. Ample means of protection to safeguard your interest are provided and a very liberal rate of interest is paid on both savings and checking accounts.

The Central Lake Exchange also represents many old line insurance companies both for fire insurance as well as steam boilers.

YUILL BROS.—VANDERBILT

GEN. MISC. REAL ESTATE, LOGGING SERVICE STATION

One of the oldest firms in Otsego County. When I first passed the establishment of Yuill Bros. at Vanderbilt, one of the best known firms in Otsego County and previous to my interview with him, I said to myself, "There's a successful business." At the time I thought no more of it, but later it seemed to me that I was losing sight of much that was of interest. I recalled having seen a play, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." The name of the play meant little or nothing. One had to look deeper to find the true story, and then it became a remarkable portrayal of life itself: life of any kind and in any era. The play featured four characters, each of which was symbolical of conditions in life, namely: Famine, Disease, Death, and War. You will note they are all destructive and ugly. Here we have something creative and far more worthy and a direct antithesis, a successful business, and unlike the other, it symbolizes several essential conditions that make up this real story, namely: Integrity of Purpose, Quality of Merchandise, Real Service, and Fair Prices. Without these essentials, the firm of Yuill Bros. would have been like any other.

THE BACKBONE OF NORTHERN MICHIGAN

The title for this article has been selected only after the subject had been given much thought and consideration. It was our desire that the title should be significant of the basic value of the community; that it should be descriptive of the real commercial strength and life of the community; that in brief it should be a story, sufficient in itself, requiring no elaboration. The word BACKBONE is used advisedly. If you study it carefully you will agree that it has a wealth of meaning and we feel justified in using it in its most liberal sense, for it is our conviction that these men of whom we write are the real BACKBONE of Northern Michigan.

The various stores, garages and other industries included in these columns, embrace places of distribution for nearly all of life's necessities and many of its luxuries and their importance to the civic and industrial welfare of this section cannot be overestimated. Most of these stores are owned and controlled by men living within the confines of the community, and all of them without exception are conducted by men who live in this section, men who have the welfare and interests of this community deeply imbedded in their hearts. All of them are competent and capable business men who have by their combined and individual efforts given this section business places that are second to none in the STATE, for the quality of merchandise sold, the service rendered and the careful courteous treatment of its patrons. The writer has no hesitancy in making these assertions. These business houses require no exaggerated truths. They are sufficiently good without them.

Men and places of this kind have placed the name of this community upon a high plane, a lofty pinnacle of moral, civil and industrial standing and as long as men of this type elect to transact business here just so long will this section maintain that enviable position.

One must remember that successful business houses are an absolute essential to the progress of any community. In fact a community cannot exist without them. They are dependent on your support, you and your community are in turn dependent on them, and a perfect spirit of co-operation between you makes the ideal thriving community.

DRY GOODS AND READY-TO-WEAR

The career and record of the firm of Frank A. Kramer located at Gaylord has been one of undeviating progress ever since its origin almost 50 years ago during which time it has upheld the basic principles of sound merchandise and unexcelled quality upon which it was founded. Its efficient and constant service to the people of Otsego County has been recognized by them in the form of an ever-increasing patronage resulting in one of the largest stores of its kind in this entire section.

The business houses of a Nation, State, County or Town collectively and individually are vital links of a large chain that binds together and makes for the strength and prosperity of that State, Nation, County or Town. This concern is one of those important links that are largely responsible for the high standing and commercial supremacy of Otsego County among other Counties of the State.

REUBEN CAISTER

A new store comes to town. Its flashy appearance and the fact that it is new attracts your attention and perhaps your patronage. For how long? Does the newness soon become old? Does your patronage still continue? Almost invariably the answer to the first question is, "Yes," and to the second, "No."

Another store came to town 25 years ago, keeping old patrons and gaining new ones ever since. Why? There must be a reason. Despite its age, this store is always new. The stock is always new; and the cordial treatment extended to patrons today is just as cordial as it was 25 years ago when Mr. Caister first started. That is about all there is to the success of this or any other business. What more could you expect? Good merchandise, fair prices, and a smile wrapped into every bundle.

CHEVROLET SALES & SERVICE

Automobile manufacturers are to be commended upon their industry in perfecting the automobile in development from a crude piece of machinery to its present high state of efficiency. They have consistently improved and refined it until today it is almost perfect. ALMOST. There is a story. The automobile is not perfect and never will be. The mechanic is still a necessary and important individual even more so today than in years past. When the automobile industry was still in its infancy, for the newer improvements and refinements necessitate the services of even more skilled and intelligent workmanship. They have not invented anything to eliminate or replace the mechanic. The car of today requires the service of competent mechanics and up to date equipment. On this particular Schreur's Garage at Gaylord has kept abreast of the advanced car and have improved and enhanced their own facilities to measure up to the high standards of performance people of today expect in their cars; garages which are fortified with both the proper knowledge and the proper tools and machinery.

DAYTON BLOCK & LAST CO.—GAYLORD

FRANK J. SHIPP

About the only difference between the so-called dead town and a live city, is the amount of work done on community problems. The live city advertises itself to the nation by the things it accomplishes, while the so-called dead town slumbers peacefully on and is not heard from.

Much of the burden of progressive movement is placed on your local business man and you, his patrons. Show your public spirit and civil loyalty by co-operating in Otsego County advancement. Your money spent with Otsego County merchants will help very truly to keep your town and county to the front as a commercial and agricultural center. It will help to enlarge our prospects for a Bigger and Better community.

SYD CARSCALLEN—WEST BRANCH

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

When a man conducts a commercial enterprise in a town, large or small, it is incumbent upon him to conduct that enterprise in a manner befitting him and also the town in which it is situated. Mr. Carscullen lives here in Otsego County and will probably spend the rest of his life here. It is his home. In the conduct of his business he has always borne these facts in mind; to help make it a better place by giving it a better business house. The individual man, the individual business is but a small component part of the town or county in which he lives, so that by improving himself, business he must of necessity improve that town or county.

CENTRAL LAKE MARKETING ASSOCIATION—CENTRAL LAKE

D. BURNS, MANAGER

Few businesses in Antrim County have enjoyed the steady and consistent growth attained by the Central Lake Marketing Association of Central Lake.

Since its inception in 1917 the firm has gone ahead in the most progressive manner, enlarging their stock and bettering their service from year to year until now they enjoy and occupy an important niche in the business chain of Antrim County. The firm's affairs are not confined to local limits, but extend over a wide area, and the large patronage they have is indeed a reflection of the high esteem in which they are held by the people of this entire section.

GAYLORD STATE SAVINGS BANK

ORGANIZED MARCH, 1893

Bank statements are frequently regarded as a barometer indicating the prosperity of the towns in which they may be located and they are invariably very accurate barometers too. The statement of the Gaylord State Savings Bank showing a capital of $50,000, Surplus and Undivided Profits of $71,000 may then be taken as an indication that the town of Gaylord in which it is located, is a thriving one and that the bank itself is doing its share in promoting and maintaining its growth.

The prestige which this bank enjoys has not come to it as a matter of chance but has been well earned by its adherence to the dictates of efficient banking principles and by the high character of service it has consistently rendered and continues to offer its patrons and the community in general. It has been the friend of every deserving business and worthy enterprise and it has proved itself a bulwark of strength and support to its patrons at all times.

The Gaylord State Savings Bank is distinctly a community bank, with the firm conviction that it can have no solid and continuous prosperity, separate from the community in which it exists and from which it must exist. It is staunch in its policy to continue to foster and encourage home enterprises and industries and to extend its aid along these lines whenever and wherever it properly can.

S. M. JAMESON—GAYLORD

FANCY AND STAPLE GROCERIES

The best to be had at the lowest possible price is the one outstanding feature that has contributed materially to the success and enviable position attained by S. M. Jameson, one of the most widely known and highly esteemed business men of Otsego County who started business here in 1913.

In a clean and well managed store room he conducts his business, keeping well abreast of the times in every respect and doing his utmost to secure and hold your patronage. With keen intellect at the outset, he built on foundations strong. The three cardinal principles of all business success, QUALITY, PRICE AND SERVICE, have formed the bulwarks of his foundation and it has endured. Business houses of this type are one of the many requisite links to the growth and stability of Otsego County. We would welcome more like them.

RICHARDSON'S GARAGE—KALKASKA

O. E. RICHARDSON

This modern garage, established in 1921, has since that time harbored much of the town's trade; merited it and due to the services given and the quality of the work rendered, it will continue to hold it. Their slogan is, "Satisfy a Patron And You Will Not Lose Him." Richardson's Garage tries mightily hard to satisfy and does. Several people are employed and the work is all done by trained men who know how, under the watchful eye of Mr. O. E. Richardson himself. The charges are very reasonable. Mr. Richardson has been a lifelong resident of Kalkaska County and has firmly entrenched himself as a very capable and straightforward business man; one who has always extended the fullest co-operation towards the industrial and commercial uplift of the community; a good citizen in a good town.

THE ANTRIM COUNTY SAVINGS BANK—MAN-CELONA

Size does not necessarily denote strength. Because a person or thing or business is large, it does not always follow that it is strong. In prehistoric days, scientists tell us that our earth was inhabited by the dinosaur and other tremendously large mammals, yet these huge monsters, despite their size, were prey for the much more diminutive animals and of man too, their size really being their weakness, though that need not always be so either. Man conquered these ferocious beasts, with nothing more than the use of his brains and a small stone club. We all know the story of the lion and the mouse and how the puny mouse liberated the monarch of the wilderness from his nets. And how David slew the Giant Goliath. These illustrations are given to prove that size is not proof of strength.

The Antrim County Savings Bank is not by any means the largest in the State, but we question whether there is any stronger. The strength of an institution of this kind is not to be judged by its size, but by its ability to meet its obligations and judged by these standards the Antrim County Savings Bank is as strong as any, and well worth the confidence bestowed upon it by its many depositors.

CAMPBELL MOTOR SALES—MANCELONA

CHEVROLET SALES & SERVICE
ROY R. CAMPBELL, PROP.

There are none to dispute the well known fact that the automobile is the essence of perfection in transportation and is also a well known fact among the knowing that the new Chevrolet represents perfection in the automotive industry.

An uninterrupted and smooth flow of power and pep you never believed existed has been built into the new lines of Chevrolet cars. Solid, massively rugged strength and beauty of line, always a dominant feature of these cars, have been enhanced by many new features and will immediately attract your attention. The General Motors policy, ALWAYS BETTER, is reflected in every model. It might also be said that no car is better than the service given to it by the man who sells it and in this respect Campbell Motor Sales measures up to every standard set by the manufacturer, briefly, to afford prompt and efficient service in every detail.

The Sponsor of this Edition takes this opportunity of thanking the many advertisers who made the success of the same possible. In his humble way he did what he could to help make same a success, and he would appreciate any comments or criticisms.

H. BEN GOCHA—GAYLORD

GOCHA'S GARAGE

In the service afforded by Gocha's Garage at Gaylord, which was established in 1911, you will note the careful attention paid to every little detail, every modern and essential device being employed to give you the service you have a right to expect from a concern of this calibre, a service that has gained for it a dominant position in the auto repairing business. If you want a motor overhauled, a tire changed, your car washed, or just greased, you get the same excellent workmanship. Large job or small job the work is guaranteed unqualifiedly.

The Gocha Garage at Gaylord is under the management of its owner, Mr. H. Ben Gocha who is constantly on the premises to supervise the work and service himself. Trained men, thoroughly competent, work on your car. No others are employed. Have it fixed here and drive it away with that feeling of confidence in knowing that it was fixed right.

M. C. DOTY—ATLANTAGENERAL STORE
G. PETERSON, MGR.

The radical is rarely a success. Few men, very few, of radical tendencies ever amounted to much, and a business conducted along radical lines will experience considerable difficulty in making worthwhile progress.

Because M. C. Doty is an advocate of the wise policy of trading with local merchants, does not mean that he is radical. Rather, it is conclusive proof that he is conservative for surely there is no more sensible thing to do than patronizing a local merchant.

Mr. Doty has been in the general store business here at Atlanta for 13 years, ever since 1918, but I do not think his advocacy of this policy is at all selfish or prejudiced. I'm sure it is his sincere belief that it is to the best interests of everyone to buy at home with a home town merchant, that the buyer in the long run will profit as well as the merchant and with that view we are in perfect accord.

H. E. MORRISON—WEST BRANCHBUICK SALES & SERVICE
JOHN DEERE FARM MACHINERY

There is an old adage, "A man is judged by the company he keeps" and generally speaking it is a reliable barometer and gauge by which to judge a man. Isn't one justified in judging a firm or business man by the product he sells or the service he renders the public? That comparison is not unreasonable, is it? It is quite reasonable to suppose that a firm which has chosen with much care, after deliberate study, the automobile they are going to sell, is a good firm to do business with. You are at least assured that they are themselves, solid on the car. They selected it of their own volition. They had a large field to select from and the Buick was the choice of that field.

Now consider this a moment, Mr. H. E. Morrison selected this car as a means of livelihood and a medium of service to you. They invested their money in it—your money in it. In fact they put their all into it. Isn't it then good logic for you to accept the judgment of men like these in the choice of your car? Shouldn't you at least afford them the opportunity to demonstrate their many advantages to you; to show you his fine points as they know them and of which you may not be aware? A call on the phone, any time, will bring one of their representatives to your door with a shining new Buick car.

HUGHSTON & CO.—MC BAINGENERAL STORE
O. W. SCOTT, MGR.

For 24 years, ever since its beginning, this store managed by Mr. O. W. Scott, has always felt that it had a purpose to fulfill—an obligation to the people from whom it was to derive its existence, an obligation that went even deeper than just to provide merchandise at a price. It has always been a store of ideas and ideals; ideals that have contributed as much as anything else to the success it now enjoys.

Mr. Scott had ways had in mind to build better—to build more durably—to build more dependably a name that would endure. These have been the aims of Hughston & Co. These obligations to you were self-assumed, and we feel that they have been faithfully carried out in every way. We feel that this store has justified the confidence that the people of Missaukee County have placed in it. We know that it will continue to merit that confidence.

No writer's pater is needed to tell you the story of this distinctively different general store. Visit it yourself, and it will tell you more clearly than words why it has gained its high repute. You, too, will become one of its steady patrons.

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every day. Their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. When you're sick, headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish, and at the same time, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women.

When one studies the business career of the Lewiston Market Association, it is difficult to give credence to the generally accepted opinion that business is a hard, cold-blooded proposition with no romance attached to it. If there is any romantic glamour about any business, then this enterprise at Lewiston abounds with it. Its history from its inception in 1919 would make excellent material for the plot of an American novel depicting the rise of the American business man.

PALMER'S GARAGE—LUZERNEPETE W. PALMER

It is casting no reflection on any other garage to point out Palmer's as one of the superior qualities, offering a service and grade of workmanship that we know will please and satisfy the most critical. No hap-hazard or slipshod methods of mechanical repairs are tolerated here. Whether it is a small minor repair or a complete overhauling, Palmer's Garage does it with that same painstaking care and thoroughness that are characteristic of the master workman in any field of endeavor; work that makes you realize what a fine garage this is. Mr. Palmer knows no other way to do a job. It must be done right or not at all. You'll come back again if Palmer's Garage does it.

ROSE CITY STATE BANK—ROSE CITYPRES. R. J. HENDERSON*VICE-PRES. NEIL McDONALD
CASHIER, F. L. DEAN

All the assets, efforts, and loyalty of the Rose City State Bank have always been and are now primarily devoted to the welfare and advancement of Ogemaw County. This bank's progress is inseparably linked with that of the County, and it owes its principal success to the co-operation it has given to the upbuilding and carrying on of industrial and commercial enterprises in this vicinity.

Progress and achievement find in the Rose City State Bank a sympathetic understanding that is based on sound banking principles and an inherent desire to do all that is consistently possible to promote the interest of the community. Our doors are open and beckon you to come in and confer with us on your financial problems and any others that you may care to confide in us. It is a pleasure to serve you in service to you we serve ourselves. Your prosperity is our prosperity, and the opportunity to help you is but an opportunity to help ourselves.

We have been here since 1913 and in that time it has always been our aim to do our utmost for you—to make you feel at home and to make you have the right to ask our assistance. When your requests are well founded they will always be granted.

CENTRAL LAKE CANNING CO.E. B. GILL, PRES.

It is hardly within the realm of conceivable possibilities that when M. E. B. Gill started this enterprise in 1902, he imagined it would attain the sizeable proportions it has already reached, and the probable heights it will undoubtedly mount to in the future. Its previous years of business activity are only the stepping stones leading to much greater things that are in store for this enterprising concern.

Success of this kind is not lightly earned, only hard work could achieve it, hard work, and high grade work and high grade merchandise.

LON COLLEN—GraylingPOCKET BILLIARDS

Any firm like that of Mr. Lon Colleen of Grayling, which has attained the height of business success in a sense, to be envied. Yet there is placed upon the successful business man an obligation that never ends; that he must constantly strive to meet and that is persistent in its demands on him. Success is not a destination; it is not a goal. It is never fully attained in life. Success is an achievement, first to be attained and then to be maintained; and in its permanent maintenance only does it become an achievement. "Permanent" is a very definite word. It means constant, always. —New location—Fischer Bldg.

WEATHER LORE

People began "speaking of the weather" a long time ago. The first scientific treatise on the weather was the United States Weather Bureau, was written by Aristotle more than 300 years before the Christian era. The Weather Bureau library, which is the largest meteorological collection in the world, has a big book on the weather by Albertus Magnus, printed in 1494, and a facsimile of a weather journal kept by the Rev. William Maule, of England, who recorded the weather day by day from 1327 to 1344. The first weather records in America, so far as known, were kept by the Rev. Johann Campanius, who recorded the weather each day in the colony of New Sweden near the present site of Wilmington, Del., for the years 1644 and 1645.

A walk through the rejuvenated store of the Grayling Mercantile Co., will make you think you have struck a department store in some city. The immense stock of goods now arriving are placed in proper place with room enough to give excellent display, and from the basement to the roof every available portion of the store will be utilized. Next Saturday is named for their Fall opening, and it will be a good time to look them over.

A fine crowd assembled at the opera house last Friday evening to witness the rendition of the popular play, "In Missouri," as given by local talent and all express the utmost satisfaction for their entertainment. It made some money for the dramatic troupe, and a pleasant evening for our citizens, which was supplemented by a social hop for the younger disciples of Terpsichore.

The Bay City Tribune recites that R. Hanson and Sons are building a rival city to Grayling, just north of our limits, which will include store, hotel and shops, besides their mills, and houses enough to cover 600 people for a starter, to be called "T. Town." That there will be a hustling suburb to Grayling on the north, which will include the mill of R. Hanson and Sons and the big turpentine plant of the Northern Development Co., which is nearly ready for business is a fact, but there will be no rival.

Saturday Douglas & Co.'s new plant was started. They commenced with the manufacture of shingles, in order to get some timber out of the pond, which is piled full. They are well pleased the way the mill is running at the present time.

C. F. Dickinson shipped one carload of hogs to Ohio last week.

Potato harvest is on. Tubers are not as good as we should like, about half a crop this year.

If smoke is a preservative, we must be well preserved by this time. Everybody is willing to have it rain and put out the fires.

Saturday afternoon T. E. Douglas opened the doors of the pavilion for his daughter Margaret who had invited about 40 guests to spend the afternoon with her. They had full possession of the lawn as well as the pavilion. The weather was fine. The little ones were swinging and playing, the time passing swiftly by, when Miss Margaret announced that luncheon was ready, and on this occasion Mrs. T. E. Douglas had shown her liberality by providing an immense birthday cake. Miss Margaret was allowed to trim the cake with candy, and Margaret showed her generous disposition by covering that cake with candy. No vacant spots left, the sides all around as well as the top were covered with candy, so each guest had a liberal supply of candy as well as cake. Nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the little ones and no one seemed to enjoy the occasion more than Miss Margaret, when she cut the cake on her birthday anniversary.

GOLF INSTRUCTION

By H. B. Martin

Mrs. Pressler Uses Long Swing With Results

Mrs. HARRY PRESSLER, one of California's best, has cultivated a remarkably long swing which stands her in good stead. Most women golfers overweigh. It is a fault hard to overcome with the fair sex who, lacking the strength of a man, believe that only a long swing will give them the desired results.

Mrs. Pressler is one who can control this swing and keep it in a groove and she gets the most out of her plying, too. This is one of the difficult things to do in golf. But this California player, somewhat imitating Bobby Jones, can keep her drives so well timed that she fears no evil consequences.

ENEMIES OF PROSPERITY

There has never been a time when it was more important to keep governmental expense down to reasonable levels than now.

Businesses and individuals are striving to make both ends meet. Authorities, public and private, are working on plans to stimulate industrial activity and thus provide employment for those who are out of work. And rising taxes are one of the principle barriers in the way of success of such plans.

Extravagance and waste on the part of officials are enemies of prosperity and result from "government in business" in competition with its private citizens and taxpayers.

POTPOURRI

Pheasants

There are some hundred species of pheasants, all native to Asia, and belong to the same domestic fowl family as the peacock. They are named after the river Phasis on the eastern shore of the Black sea. The naturalized American pheasant is a hybrid of the British and so-called ring-necked breed.

REDUCE HUNTING CASUALTIES

Michigan's annual toll of from 50 to 60 casualties during the hunting season can be materially reduced by common sense in the woods according to the Department of Conservation.

The Department's reports on hunting accidents show that practically all of them are caused by carelessness. Most of the self-inflicted wounds have resulted from hunters picking up their guns by pulling the barrels toward them. The tendency of some hunters to shoot at anything that moves is perhaps the major cause of major hunting accidents in Michigan.

Last year 27 were killed and 85 injured during the hunting season. Eighteen were killed and 22 were injured before the opening of the deer season.
